What can you do as a parent?

1. SUPERVISE

Look out for signs of distress, and monitor your child's progress.

Noticed any of the following signs that is out of the norm for your child?

- Struggles to pay attention in studies or activities
- Tiredness
- Rebellious streak
- Excuses to miss school/class
- Stays away from others
- Sulkiness

It may be an indication of too much stress.

2. PROVIDE

Know your child's needs and be present.

Be willing to listen and communicate frequently in an open and supportive manner.

Give them your attention.

What can you do as a parent?

3. ROLE MODEL

Role model resilient behaviour and positive mindsets in everyday situations.

Share with your child some of the challenges and setbacks you've faced, and how you managed and maintained positivity.

4. REASSURE

Encourage your child regularly.

Provide positive feedback and cheer your child on for every effort.

How can you manage your own stress?

For some parents, the PSLE period may also be a stressful time.

Parents play an important role in managing the stress and anxiety that you and your children may go through, from the days leading up to the PSLE and results release.

Your behaviour and the home environment you create are crucial in reinforcing resilient mindsets and positive coping mechanisms in your child.

How can you manage your own stress?

Celebrate the effort, not the results

Appreciate your child's hard work and show it through a simple gesture.

E.g. Have a nice meal together at the end of the examinations, before the results release, to let your child know that you are celebrating his or her effort.

Ensure that both you and your child get enough down time

Continue to spend time with your child to bond and rest.

Simple activities such as getting some exercise or playing a board game together can help to relieve stress and allow you and your child to recharge.

Questions about PSLE

- ❓ What happens if I fall sick during the PSLE but I sit the examination?

If you feel unwell or need assistance during the examination, please inform the invigilator so that the necessary assistance can be provided. You should submit your medical documents to your school. Any request for special consideration should be made through the school.

- ❓ What happens if I fall sick during the PSLE?

If you sat for your national examination under adverse circumstances or miss your national examination paper(s) with valid reasons (including COVID-19, medical leave or compassionate reasons), you can apply for special consideration. Supporting documents must be provided along with your application.

Please approach your school teacher to apply for special consideration through your school.

❓ What happens to my results if I do not turn up for the examination?

If you have missed one or more papers for a subject but have sat for the rest of the papers of the subject, you will be given an Achievement Level (AL) for this subject, based on the papers that you have sat.

If you missed all papers of a subject without a valid reason, you will receive AL8 and the subject will be annotated with a * symbol to denote 'Absent without valid reason'.

If you have a valid reason, such as illness, for missing at least one or all papers for a subject, you should inform your school and provide relevant supporting documents for the school to apply for special consideration on your behalf. All special consideration applications are assessed on each case's merit, to ensure that the grades awarded are as accurate and fair as possible.
